If a particular number of units (credits) and/or courses is required to fulfill a requirement, you will be shown the total number required, the actual number (completed and in progress) you have towards that requirement, and the remaining number needed.

The minimum number of units required for your degree will also be shown this way.

(Remember that for some degrees you have to take a number of elective courses in addition to all required courses to meet the minimum.)

Degree requirements will be "nested" on your degree audit.

For example, if your major requires a number of specific courses and a number of elective courses in your major department, the audit might show Major Required Courses and Major Elective Courses separately, but they will be nested within your Major Plan.

The Major Plan would still read "Not Satisfied" until all requirements nested within it are satisfied.

By clicking on the class, you will be shown the course detail and will be able to view available class sections.
