Introduction

This document reflects the pages and fields that support the current I-9 Form.

As of March 08, 2013, the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) issued an updated Form I-9. The form is available for immediate use. However, employers who need to make necessary updates to their business processes to use new Form I-9 may continue to use existing form until May 7, 2013 date. After May 7, 2013, all employers must use the revised Form I-9 for each new employee hired in the United States.

For Spanish users, the PeopleSoft application supports the translation of the pages and provides links to the Spanish instructions.
Managing I-9 Information

This document provides an overview of managing I-9 information and discusses how to:

• Complete and submit Section 1 of the I-9 Form (completed by the employee).
• Complete the preparer or translator certification (applicable only in specific situations).
• Complete sections 2 and 3 of the I-9 Form (completed by the employer).
• Update or request a new I-9 Form.
• Print I-9 Forms.
• Run the I-9 Receipt/Expiration report.
• Archive I-9 data.

Understanding I-9 Information Management

The Immigration and Nationality Act requires United States employers to complete and store I-9 Forms. Employers may process paper I-9 Forms and store them in electronically or complete and retain the I-9 Forms solely in electronic format.

PeopleSoft Human Resources enables you to collect, store, and manage all I-9 information in compliance with the Immigration and Nationality Act. This includes employee self service functions to complete and submit the employee I-9 information, and functionality for the employer to complete the required employer sections of the I-9 Form. The application provides components to report and process I-9 information, including notification of expiration dates, storing, printing, and archiving.
Image: Process flow for completing the I-9 Form

This example illustrates the process for completing the I-9 Form electronically.

Completing the I-9 Form online requires the following steps:

1. An employee must submit employment verification information on the first day of his or her employment. The employee can fill out the identification and citizenship information for section 1 on the self service I-9 Form - Employee Information and Attestation page.

2. After the employee submits this information, the HR administrator will:
   a. Review and complete sections 2 and 3 of the I-9 Form required by the employer using the Complete/Reverify EE I-9 Form component.

      If a new I-9 is needed, the administrator can send notification to the employee to complete a new I-9 Form.

   b. Manage the I-9s by viewing pending and expired documents, printing I-9 Forms, or archive data that is not longer needed.

Request employee to complete and submit a new I-9 Form.

HR administrators use this page to view completed I-9 documentation and enter additional information, if applicable. If an employee is rehired within three years of termination, or if the original document has expired, employers may reverify or update the original I-9 after it is submitted. An I-9 Form can only be updated or reverified one time (including receipt and actual documentation).

If new information needs to be entered and actual documentation information already exists, all fields will be display only and the employee and employer must complete a new I-9 Form. The administrator can send an email notification to the employee requesting a new I-9 Form from this page. The administrator is able to view all forms completed by employees, including history.

The employer is not allowed to make any changes to the form after it is saved unless the Receipt check box is selected. In this case, you can enter the actual information for the specific document that was flagged as Receipt, but only the Receipt Doc Nbr and Rec Exp Date fields. The entry in the Document Title field cannot be changed. After the additional field entries are completed and the form is saved, the Receipt check box and document number and expiration date fields are grayed out and cannot be edited.
